

Are you thinking about joining JOB CORPS?

Not sure if it's right
for you?
See if you can picture yourself as a Job Corps student.

Job Corps students are ...

- Committed to themselves and to their own futures.
- Focused on their purpose and ready to improve their own lives.
- Respectful of authority.
- Serious about starting a career.
- Ages 16 through 24.
- Striving to further their education and training.

... But Job Corps students don't:

- Join Job Corps just for their friends.
- Skip class.
- Give up after only a few months.
- Use drugs or fight with other students.

Job Corps is a great opportunity to earn wages while you receive high-tech career training – at no cost to you. But it isn't for everyone.

At Job Corps, you ...

- Live in a group setting.
- Stick to a daily schedule and attend classes.
- Receive free room, board, and a clothing allowance.
- Stay for 1 to 2 years and receive advanced training.
- Can participate in continuous learning and recreational activities.
- Follow a dress code. Students on all centers wear uniforms.
- Get employment assistance before you graduate.
- Receive basic health care.

... But Job Corps isn't:

- A program for troubled youth.
- A place for kids who only want a GED.
- A boot camp.
- A great way to find a boyfriend or girlfriend.
- A treatment facility for serious medical or mental health issues.

Anchorage applicants must attend an information session on a Monday at 3PM at 4300 B Street, Suite 100 in Anchorage.

Mat-Su Valley applicants must attend an information session on a Wednesday at 2PM at 800 E. Lynn Martin Drive in Palmer.

All other applicants will call to begin the application through the mail.

Job Corps students are focused on their futures and are working toward finding successful careers. If you're ready to work, learn, and earn industry credentials, Job Corps could be right for you.
